They complement the curriculum for a range of ages from Primary School to GCSE level. Using various lessons and games, available in both Welsh and English, we aim to encourage children to think about forest environments, their habitats, inhabitants and climate change through a number of outdoor and indoor activities. These include drawing, role play, experiments, numeracy, persuasive writing, geography, history.

How to work from home when the kids are around

Many of us are now having to adjust to a new way of doing things and are discovering that working from home – with children around – brings a whole new set of pressures. So, your imagined, carefully choreographed day has become, in reality, a nightmare of noisy kids clamouring for your attention. Suddenly, you need to balance the demands of your employer with those of your family. How are you to cope when the two distinct worlds of parenting and work collide? Here are some ideas to relieve the potential stress.
