Be Internet Legends

Hello – Thanks to those of you who have expressed interest in our virtual parent sessions.

We're delighted to announce our very first dates – this week!

- Friday 22nd May at 15:30

These livestreams – hosted on YouTube – are an ideal way to strengthen support for your school community. Our experienced Be Internet Legends team will introduce the programme to parents and answer any questions and concerns they might have. If you're interested, please follow the next steps below. If these dates don't work for you, check out our full schedule.

What are the next steps?

We're currently offering a limited number of virtual parent sessions and inviting other schools along too – so if you're interested, please let us know. Reply to this email and tell us which link you'll be sharing – and how many parents you'll be sharing it with. Then feel free to reach out to your school community in whatever way works best for you!

And finally.....

What do you call an acid with an attitude? A-mean-oh acid.

An atom was sitting by the side of the lab crying. A second atom came over and asked if the first atom was OK. The first atom replied "I think I've lost an electron," to which the second atom asked, "Are you positive?"

Be like a proton, always positive.

How many eggs do French folk have for breakfast? One. Because one egg is un œuf.

Teacher: Give a sentence beginning with "I". A: Student: I is.... Q:

Teacher: Stop there, you need to begin with "I am". A: Student: Okay...I am the ninth letter of the alphabet.
